SEARCHING FOR BODIES IN SUBMARINE

FORMER PICKAWAY MAN IS IN COMMAND OF THE WORK

Rear Admiral Christy Has Been Assigned the Task of Raising Vessel and Recovering Bodies—Some Have Been Found, But There Is Little Hope That Any of the 33 of the Crew Are Alive.

Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, a former resident of this county, is in charge of the efforts to find the bodies and raise the undersea boat, S-51 which went down last Friday night when she was rammed by the Savannah line steamer City of Rome, 14 miles off Block Island. The first body recovered was that of John L. Gibson, of Amity, Oregon, engineman second class, and was found in the battery room by deep sea divers.

The body of William T. Teschemacher, seaman, first class, of Bangor, Pennsylvania, was the second to be found on the S-51 by divers. Teschemacher's twin brother, Frederick, also was aboard and believed to have been lost. Frederick was thought to have been at the helm when the submarine was struck and one of those washed overboard. The boys were 19. William's body was taken on the Camden and it was stated in the message from Rear Admiral Christy that all bodies would be taken to the naval hospital at Newport.

The message did not state in what compartment the youth's body was found, but indicated that the diver who entered the submarine may have gone in thru the conning tower hatch instead of the battery room hatch, as first reported. The latter message said he was working toward the battery room hatch from the torpedo room.

A bugler called attention and blew taps as the blanket wrapped bodies of two victims of the S-51, which went down last were lifted tenderly over the sides of the U. S. S. Camden, flight ship of rescue fleet, which is working to recover the 33 men who sank with their ship. Both the bodies were in good condition.

While men prowled thru the submarine the hum of seaplane motors could be heard overhead as naval aviators flew low over the surrounding waters in an effort to find the bodies of three men believed to have been washed overboard with the three survivors who were picked up by a City of Rome lifeboat.

Tuesday it was search for bodies. Monday night it was a search for men. Little hope that any of the 33 in the crew could be alive was held out by officers at the naval station, although none would publicly admit that they believed all their shipmates were dead. Even when word was received that twenty coffins had been ordered from the Chelsea naval hospital to the Newport station, Lieutenant Commander H. A. Flanagan, executive officer of the base, stressed the point that a part of the work of the divers was to make sure that all possible air was being pumped into any compartments that might hold survivors.

The divers, said a message received at the base, were working separately. One of them was inside the S-51 working forward. The other was on the outside of the same part of the ship.

The message also said that airplanes had arrived to assist the two destroyers that Monday night used their searchlights to pierce the darkness of the waters around Block Island as they searched for the bodies that eventually would come to the surface.

Lieutenant Commander Flanagan said the divers evidently would be working either forward or aft from the battery room where Gibson's body was found and taking out the bodies of others that they might come across

in their gruesome search thru the undersea prison.

Lieutenant Commander F. W. Scanlan, in charge of the submarine training school, with Mrs. Scanlan and Dr. Jones, of New London, bore the sad tidings of her husband's fate to Mrs. Gibson in Groton. Lieutenant Commander Scanlan and his wife have made the rounds every afternoon and evening to visit the wives and relatives of the men who went down on the S-51 and who came from many points so that they could get first word of the fate of their dead ones.

FOOTBALL SEASON

TO OPEN FRIDAY.

The C. H. S. gridders will open the season when they tangle with Walnut high next Friday afternoon on the school field. This game will be highly interesting, for it will show the public an almost entirely new team on Circleville's part. Only three of last year's letter men, Peters, Walters and Liston are back, the new team hinging on these veterans.

The boys have had steady workouts for weeks and the team is shaping up. They are faster than last year's squad and promise a lot of snappy action thruout the season.

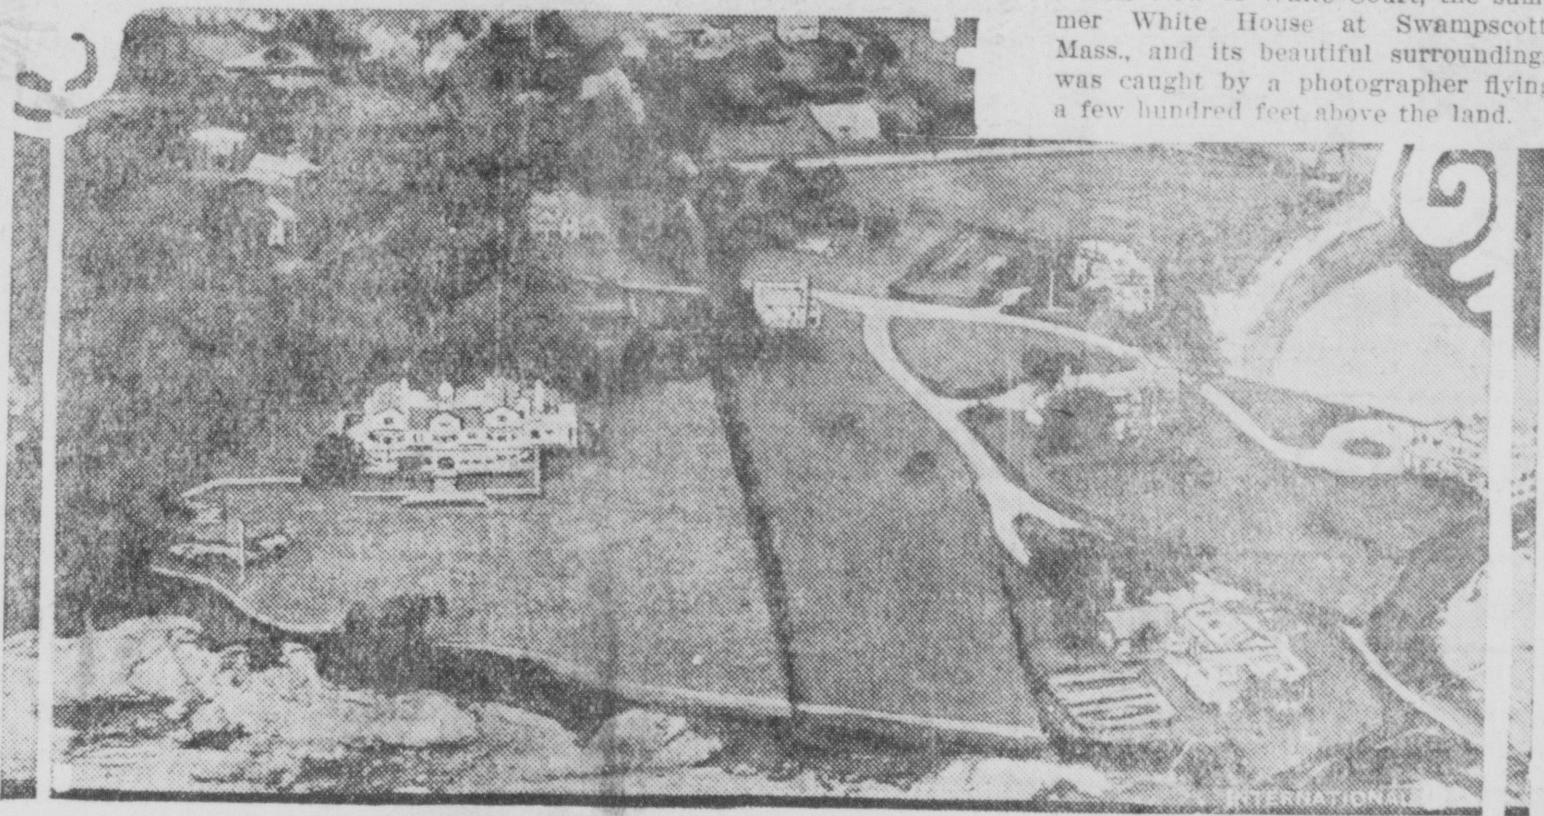

Among the home games this year we have Greenfield, October 9; Hillsboro, October 30; Washington, November 13, and Ashville November 20.

A special scrap against Ashville is planned, altho it is not a league game. The first league game will be against Greenfield next week on our home grounds; don't forget it. Confidentially the team has a dark horse; come around Friday afternoon and watch him step.

Newark, Ohio—Bloodhounds were brought to Newark Tuesday to be used in an effort to track arsonists who set fire to the stockyards at the sympathy in letters, telegrams, messages and flowers, are sincerely appreciated.

MONDAY CLUB IS LIMITING MEMBERSHIP

Interesting Program Rendered on the Study of the Dark Continent.

The regular meeting of the Monday club, on the evening of September 28, was almost unprecedented as to the number of members present.

After preliminary exercises and reading of minutes of the previous meeting, the president turned the session over to Mrs. Howard Jones, chairman of the history division, the evening's study being the history of Africa, under various topics. Mrs. Jones introduced the subject, giving, in a combined form of reading and conversation, a resume of the chief historical data relating to the "dark continent," together with its topography, its geological aspects, geography, flora and fauna. In all, it was a most satisfactory introduction to the study of Africa, which country will be taken up, also in subsequent lessons.

Under the general title, "Exploitation of Africa by Modern Nations," Miss Reichelderfer read a paper on English explorations in African territory. The writer had not skimmed the surface for bare facts relating to her subject, but had delved deeply, in the end combining thought with a wealth of material gathered in research, the result being a well written and forceful article.

The next topic was a sketch of the African explorer, Henry M. Stanley, given in a most interesting paper prepared and read by Miss Weldon. Many instructive events in the life of Stanley as well as a number of curious and extraordinary incidents which showed him to be one of the most remarkable men of his age were woven together into an entertaining story to which Miss Weldon's hearers listened with pleased attention.

This paper ended the study hour, after which a business session was held, in which Mrs. James Moffitt and Mrs. Evan Reichelderfer were voted in as members.

A matter taken up that may be of general interest related to the limitation of club membership, which in the form of a motion was brought before the club and carried. This action was deemed necessary in view of the restricted quarters being occupied as a club room. From the splendid attendance of members at this meeting, it was evident that a very few more members would leave not even standing room, and it was decided as advisable to take care of this contingency at once.

FALL FESTIVAL TO BE SEPT. 30-OCT. 3

Arch Post 477, American Legion, Has Announced the Dates for the Fifth Annual New Holland Fall Festival, To Be Held on
the Streets, on Wednesday,
Thursday, Friday and Saturday,
Sept. 30 to Oct. 3, Inclusive.

Committees in charge of the various phases and departments of the annual celebration have been at work for some time and all preparations are rounding into what now appears to be the biggest and best Fall Festival ever held in this section of the state.

Feeling along the lines of entertainment
have been running at a high pitch
and those who make this show
their annual outing and vacation
time are showing much enthusiasm
in the coming event. From records received from other towns where similar celebrations have been held
this summer, the forecast of attendance
will surpass any crowd that has ever visited the Festival.

Attractions will be numerous.
Something entertaining for all ages is the aim of those in charge
of the contracts and the program will consist of a wide variety of amusement. Attempts have been made to hold all attractions within view of cleanliness and the cheap
and immoral shows will not be tolerated. The midway will contain such things as will give profit to the American Legion, in its charitable cause.

The proceeds of the Festival
will go into the Memorial Fund
of the local veterans' organization.
Some profit has been realized from the affair each year and it has been saved and placed into a fund which the ex-soldiers and their sister organization, the American Legion Auxiliary, expect to invest in some fitting Community Memorial—either
a permanent home for Arch Post or some other monument. Several hundred dollars are now in the fund
and, when a suitable amount is totaled, the work of selecting the Memorial will take place. The Legion asks the support of the community
in swelling the Memorial Fund.

MEETING OF AUXILIARY

Of Howard Hall Post, American Legion.

Mrs. Charles Smith was hostess
last evening, to the members of Howard Hall Post, No. 134, American Legion Auxiliary, at her home in East Mound street.

These meetings are being held at the homes of the various members
while the improvements to the Post Room in Memorial Hall are in progress, and are being made
as attractive as possible in the hopes that more members will arrange to attend the meetings.

After the regular business session,
last evening, which was presided
over by the president, Mrs. A. A.
Parrett, the comfort bags, to be given to the soldiers in the Government
hospitals in this district, at Christmas,
and which were made at the last meeting, were filled and wrapped in preparation for turning over to the Red Cross committee.

The next regular meeting will be held on Monday evening, October 12th, at the home of Mrs. B. T.
Hedges, and it is hoped that as many as possible of the members will be present, as some very important plans are to be discussed.

Good Health Is Essential To Success For Business Women Says Busy Woman Executive

Counteract the effect of your daily work, whatever it may be, if you would grow old but not stale on your job. That is the theory and has been the practice of a woman who on her forty-first anniversary with the same company received promotion and a title never before accorded one of her sex by the Prudential Insurance Company.

"To increase your value as the years roll on, instead of lagging behind and letting the younger ones set the pace, a man has to keep abreast of the times. A woman has to do likewise if she is going to remain in a responsible post."

So spoke Miss Estelle MacMillan when asked how she had through the years continued to advance in the company's work, finally winning the title of assistant supervisor, in company with Mrs. Annie M. Power, an expert in industrial procedure who has been with the Prudential thirty-five years.

"Good health, in my opinion, is virtually an essential in a woman's success," said Miss MacMillan. "The harrowing, petty ills—headaches, indigestion, attacks of neuritis or neuralgia—shatter a woman's poise, undermine her powers of concentration and sap her energy. She must avoid them by proper care of her health and suitable diversion after business hours. I am not recommending any one form of exercise or amusement. Every woman has her own needs. She must find them out and supply them."

"There is just one general rule—perhaps I should say two in order to emphasize their importance. Fresh air—all one can get of it day and night—is the first, and the second is sufficient rest. Closely related to rest is the subject of relaxation."

"If a woman is on her feet all day naturally long walks will not appeal to her in the evening. When a woman spends seven hours a day over ledgers she should not sit home and do cross word puzzles. The long walk is for her."

UNIFORM CODES AND SAFETY LAWS

Cleveland, Sept. 29.—(UP.)—A movement has been started for the adoption of uniform codes and laws applying to safety which will insure greater protection against accidents, Carl B. Auel, retiring president of the National Safety Council, declared in an address before the Fourteenth Annual Congress here.

He told how the safety movement had spread into every community, and how it has won the support of the public, insurance companies and even the federal government.

"Safety promotion involves education," Auel said. "If ever a complete solution of the present problem of preventing accidents is found, it must commence with the children in the home."

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Childhood

Adults, whether parents or government teachers, are phenomena of nature which children unquestionably accept. Unworried by philosophies which rend the souls of adults, to them today is today and yesterday
was not, and tomorrow shall not be.
Living in the moment, with the moment thus becoming eternity, to them
we adults are as the rocks, the trees,
the sky, the sun. We are neither to be liked nor disliked, loved nor hated.
We just are. We have reality, but it is a sketchy sort of reality, bearing slight relation to important things.For we adults forget: food and drink and sleep are the realities to us,
but not to children. Play, the words or deeds of their coevals—these are the true realities. And how can we, benevolent autocrats seated upon the throne of middle life, understand the vital things?—Arthur Somers Roche,

Slants on Life

By J. A. WALDRON

The Lesser of Two Evils

"I SAY, Margery! Do you know what I've hawf a mind to do this evening?"Harold Clarence Bilberry was at table with Mrs. Bilberry. They had passed the first anniversary of married life. Mrs. Bilberry was formerly Margery Golightly, comedienne. Nobody had ever charged her with committing matrimony with any other alim
than elegant leisure—at least nobody
who had ever seen Harold Clarence.
This evening she had noted with apprehension that her husband had not dressed for dinner. This surprise had kept her, throughout the function,
from indulging her accustomed and
acute desire to yawn in his company.
Apparently he embodied the intellectual dernier ressort."Why, no, dear. Of course I don't. I suppose you'll go to a club, as usual,
and enjoy yourself.""Haw-haw! I thought I should puzzle you! Really, I've hawf a mind to spend the evening with you!"

"Oh!"

This exclamation has more than one possibility. It may express surprise, pain, sorrow, anxiety or a wish. It all depends upon the tone and manner. A thoughtful third person, had one been present, might have drawn an interesting conclusion from Mrs. Bilberry's interjection. As it was, there were but two or three servants about. They were busy clearing away."Yaas. You see, it's—really, how long is it? I mean, you know, since I've spent an evening with you—in the bosom of my family! Haw-haw!
That's cleavah, isn't it? I mean the bosom of my family."Mrs. Bilberry looked at Harold Clarence uneasily and censored another yawn. "Why, I don't remember. How long is it?""That's just what I was awsking James before dinner. I told him he needn't wait about to dress me to-"Haw-haw! I Thought I Should Puzzle You!"night. And I fawncy he has taken an evening out. Haw-haw! When the rat's away, the cats'll play—Isn't that it? I mean when the master's in, the man may go out. Haw-haw!""But what did James say?"
"Oh! Aw! Yaas. James said I hadn't spent an evening at home—in the bosom of my family—since he didn't remembah when! And that's surely a long time, eh, Margery?"Mrs. Bilberry rose and walked slowly to the elevator. Harold Clarence following. On the first landing, in a hall snugger, she settled on a couch
and looked longingly at an open book
and a solitary deck, while Harold Clarence lighted a cigarette and stood joyously regarding her. In all his quite uneventful career he had but once before felt more self-satisfied. That was the day he married Margery Golightly."Don't you enjoy yourself at one of your clubs—at all of your clubs?""I should say I did! Only lawst evening, at the Trailers, I heard a conundrum that amused me fiercely.
'What is the difference,' it went, 'between wah and the flood?'"

"And what is the difference?"

"Why—aw—let me see. The difference? Aw—yes. It was something,
you know, about the kaiser and Noah.
And it was amusing. Devilishly so, I assure you, my deah.""It must have been," Mrs. Bilberry could not censor a yawn this time.
But she lost her languor in a moment.
The bell rang. A servant appeared with a card. Harold Clarence took it.
"Junius Brutus Bunk." Who's he?
That sounds like a—aw—aw—a theater person." Harold Clarence turned to the servant. "Aw—what does he want?"The servant seemed embarrassed.
"I've an appointment with him,"
said Mrs. Bilberry. "He is a theater manager.""Aw—aw—an appointment? What about, my deah?""I'm going back on the stage."

Curbing Blood Pressure

A new treatment for curbing high blood pressure has been discovered. It consists of hypodermic injections of extracts of the liver. According to Dr.
W. J. MacDonald of St. Catherine's
Canada, in 33 clinical cases already treated the pressure has been reduced.
On the average, he says, the patients
treated have been known to be subject to high blood pressure for six years before treatment. Patients whose pressures have been running over 200 for years require one dose a week to keep their pressures underREAR ADMIRAL

ENTERTAINED AT TARLTON.

The members of the chamber of commerce, their ladies and also the members of the Business and Professional Women's club broke bread at Tarlton Tuesday evening. The women of St. Jacob's Lutheran church served a dinner in the social parlors of the church.Seventy visitors were present. They were greeted and welcomed by the leading citizens of the village. A most elegant repast was served and everyone enjoyed the spread very much.Rev. J. M. Wenrich, pastor of the congregation, made the welcome address. He was followed by Rev. G. J.
Troutman, who used as his theme;
"What Are You Worth?" The address was very interesting. He made some home thrusts worth while listening to and deplored the lack of confidence in our local business men when it came to a matter of making investments we would be better off financially, said the speaker. If we made more investments at home instead of sending our money abroad;
it's time to take stock of yourself and see how much you are worth to your family, your town and vicinity.The next meeting which will be the last out of town, will be held at Kingston next Tuesday evening.

His Business Size

Two of his friends were discussing Dick, as friends will. "I hear," remarked one, "that Dick is doing a big business." There was a silence, as there often is under such circumstances. "Well, isn't he?" persisted the first friend. There was another silence
and then the second friend replied:
"A big business? I'd hardly say that,
but he's doing a near-mahogany desk
size business."

Why Can't We?

Roscoe Pound, the brilliant head of the Harvard Law school, talked at a dinner in Boston about the millions
that the American people, with unflagging zeal, lose every year in bogus
stocks."The people learn by doing," said Mr. Pound. "Why can't they learn by being done?"

Bully Got a Lesson

As a train neared Cleveland, a tall
man was aggressively bully-ragging
the porter because he had been unable to pick out the passenger's traveling bag by his description of it. Billy Evans, baseball umpire and sports writer, was present and finally expressed a desire that the browbeating cease. But the tall man only talked louder. Evans got up and walked back to be faced aggressively by the talker. "So you've come back to settle this, have you?" he blared at Evans. "Well, now you're here, what are you going to do about it? What are you going to do, eh?" Evans' answer was an instantaneous short-armed cuff with the open hand which jammed the talker's head about three feet. But it settled the argument.
Sometimes a fist can settle things

New Continent in Pacific?

Edwin Fairfax Naulty of New York,
for many years a student of the earth's movements, says that the Hawaiian islands are gradually rising
from the sea and that within a generation the group, now containing 6,454
square miles, will be equal in area to Japan. The fact that Japan's area, including the Japanese portion of the island of Sakhalin, is 173,833 square
miles, indicates the importance of Mr.
Naulty's prediction.If this forecast be confirmed, Nature
will have restored a lost Atlantis in the mid-Pacific and placed under the domination of the American flag virgin territory more than three times as large as the state of Kentucky. Addition of 166,000 square miles of habitable land to the earth's area would be one of the most remarkable developments in cosmography known since recorded history began. —Louisville

CROSSES MARK DEATH SPOTS ALONG ROADS

Each Marker Represents a Fatal Motor Accident.

Dotting the sides of Ohio's highways throughout the length of the state at frequent and infrequent intervals stand white crosses. They mark spots where automobilists have been killed.

Automobile drivers, rounding a sharp curve, in many sections come squarely upon a white cross, or possibly two or three, mute reminders that one or more persons have been killed at that spot.

Gov. Vic Donahey was responsible for the placing of the crosses. It was his idea that they would help to cut down automobile fatalities by making drivers more cautious. They have not been installed long enough, however, to draw any conclusions.

Many automobile drivers declare they experience a sinking sensation when they suddenly come upon the white crosses. The governor has been condemned for the move on the ground it gives rise to morbid thoughts; others have praised it as being a good "sedative" for reckless drivers.

SAFETY DEMANDS FOR CAR DRIVER

Persons Driving Autos Soon to Pass Examination as to Qualifications.

The day is coming when the law will require all persons to pass examinations proving that they are physically and mentally fit and have sufficient knowledge to drive an automobile safely. Part of this examination will be on just such subjects as the one presented in these lessons.

Persons who should not be allowed to drive cars include:

a. Children below a certain age (usually sixteen).

b. Persons whose height does not permit easy reach of the controlling pedals.

c. Persons who have not sufficient strength to operate control levers easily and positively.

d. Persons under the influence of liquor or drugs.

e. Epileptics or others subject to fits or fainting spells.

f. Persons who do not know and understand the traffic laws, ordinary rules of the road, and other points concerned with safe and efficient automobile operation.

g. Persons with dangerous defective hearing or eyesight.

h. Cripples or persons minus arms or legs whose defects interfere with their safe control of an automobile.

i. Persons whose nervous structure is not sound or who do not react quickly.

j. The mentally incompetent.

Laws Are Needed.

Laws have not yet been passed covering all of these points, but we should bear these things in mind because they are essential for our own safety and the safety of others.

The demands for safety are more stringent than the demands of the law and rightly so. Laws are primarily to insure justice. A full appreciation of safety saves lives and limbs no matter who is to blame.

A man may have a mechanically perfect car, but because of careless driving he may cause an accident that results in serious injury or death to himself or others.

Reckless driving is not a demonstration of skill.

A moment or two saved today by reckless speeding is not efficiency, for speeding tomorrow may result in a smash that will lay up the car for several days and you for several months. Hurrying to get ahead of a train, a street car, or another vehicle saves only a moment or two at the ultimate destination and the gain is not worth the price; there is too much danger of accident.

Best Drivers Are Careful.

The best drivers are especially careful at dusk or twilight. There is then neither enough daylight nor sufficient artificial light to make objects distinguishable at ordinary distances.

Slow up for all turns in the road. Blind corners are dangerous. When it is impossible to see what is coming from around the corner, be prepared to stop. Sound horn a short distance before the corner.

When installing chains on the rear wheels, install them on both wheels or none at all. Only one chain may result in a serious accident. Chains on all four wheels help the steering of the car.

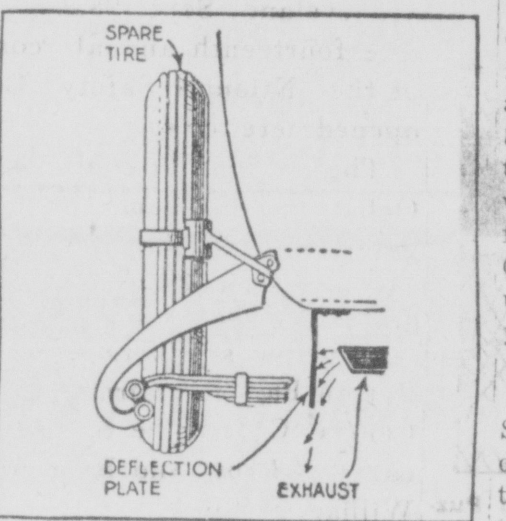

There are ruts at the bottom of almost every hill. Hitting these ruts at too high a speed may cause the driver to lose control of his car.

Drive slowly at bridges and at culverts. A bad rut or a stone in the road may throw your car against the structure.

Protecting the Spare Tire From Exhaust Gas

The poisonous gases that issue from the exhaust of an automobile very often cause the rapid deterioration of the spare tire. These fumes curl about the tire, eat away the live ingredients of the carcass, and when the tire is placed upon the wheel the rotten fabric explodes with a loud "plop."

A piece of sheet iron bent and attached to the rear of the car, as illustrated, will deflect the exhaust and thus prevent the gases from injuring the tire. Just for curiosity's sake

watch the cars as they go by and note how many of them throw the exhaust fumes into the spare tire. You will be surprised.—Paul Peterston in Popular Science Monthly.

Many Autoists Neglect Oiling of Vital Parts

The modern motorist by this time has become, as a rule, well educated in the care of his car, save in the single respect of attending to the lubrication of the chassis. The average motorist has learned, perhaps, by the experience of paying $40 or $50 for a new battery, that it pays to attend regularly to its filling and testing.

He has learned, perhaps, through paying for new bearings for his motor that it pays to keep plenty of oil in his crank case.

But it is the average motorist who does not realize the importance of chassis lubrication, because he never has realized sharply just what his neglect in this respect costs him.

He is more apt, very humanly, to blame it upon the maker of the car, and tells his friends that his car has not "stood up" the way it should. If there were some way of making the motorist realize that it is nothing more or less than his own neglect of chassis lubrication that has been the cause of most of his troubles it would go a long way toward prolonging the life and the satisfactory service of most motor cars.

Too Rich Mixture Will Often Cause Motor Heat

Improper carburetor adjustment is often the cause of overheated engines. Too rich mixture results in a prolonged, sluggish ignition causing the intense heat to be maintained over a longer period of time. This causes the water to heat up too quickly and in its comparatively short cycle of circulation, it cannot become properly cooled, so that an overheated engine results.

The increased heat, due to the prolonged, sluggish ignition caused by a rich carburetor mixture, is transmitted to the circulating water through the medium of the cylinder walls. This rise in the water temperature is instantly recorded by the heat indicator on the radiator cap through the medium of the vapor temperature over the water. The warning of an overheated engine is thus given in ample time before serious damage results.

FARM BUREAU ACTIVITIES IN TABLOID FORM

Thirty-Four Decks in August.

The Livestock Shipping association shipped 34 decks of livestock during the month of August. Twenty-one of the 34 went direct to the packers—sold on home weights. For the fiscal year September 1, 1924, to September 1, 1925, 354 floors of livestock were shipped with a total weight of 5,383,117 pounds.

Club Boys and Girls Stand High At State Fair.

Thirty-one boys and girls had exhibits at the Ohio State fair. Five girls and two boys gave demonstrations in Food club work, Clothing club work and Pig club work. The Food club stood seventh in a class of 67 and the Clothing club eighth in a class of 70. Eleven ribbons were won on pigs including two firsts, three seconds, two thirds, three fourths and one fifth. The poultry club members won one first, one third and one fourth out of the four Pickaway county exhibits.

Good Weather For Soy Beans.

All of the 200 acres of soy beans planted by Pickaway county farmers for the first time were harvested during the dry weather in August. These beans were put up in fine condition and every farmer reporting says he will sow some more next year. Ask your neighbor how he likes soy beans.

Farmers Borrow Money.

One loan for $7,000 was closed and another application was made for a loan of $5,600 during the month of August. These farmers are getting the loans on 5 per cent interest and 1 per cent on the principal, 6 1/2 per cent payable semiannually will cancel the mortgage in 3 1/2 years. Loans may be cancelled any time before 3 1/2 years.

Two Train Loads of Fertilizer.

Again Pickaway county takes the lead of all Ohio counties in the purchase of Farm Bureau fertilizer; 1650 tons have been delivered to Pickaway County Farm Bureau members. Seventy-eight cars on two special trains of the N. & W. and Pennsylvania railroads carried this tonnage from the Lockland plant just north of Cincinnati. A marked increase in the use of high grade fertilizer over last year was noticed.

Cream Association Leads in Ohio.

The Pickaway County Local of The Scioto Valley Cooperative Milk Producers association took first place in the volume of butterfat handled for the month of August, 30,541 pounds of butter fat and 5,436 dozens of eggs at a combined value of $15,817.28 represents the business for the month.

Keeping Count On The Hens.

Does poultry pay? When we analyze the records kept by women from every township for the year beginning November 1, to November 1, 1926, we shall know more about it. Anyone interested may keep records furnished by the Ohio State university Call the Farm Bureau office.

The Pumpkin Show Is Coming

Pumpkins, pigs and poultry are coming too. At least 65 Pig club pigs will be exhibited; 175 clothing exhibits 25 food and 20 poultry exhibits will be made by club boys and girls. This promises to be the largest club exhibit ever made at the Pumpkin Show. The Pumpkin Show society is offering very liberal rewards for good work. The ladies' committee will have a booth at the show, showing some few devices for home care of the sick. Stop and ask questions.

Clarage Corn.

Clarage corn is making a good showing in every township. This corn does not have quite as big an ear as Reeds Yellow Dent but the shelling per cent is very good and the cob is small. Ears show extreme quality. Three Clarage fields were inspected and have passed the first inspection. Plenty of good seed will be available next spring.

Time to Feed Dairy Cows.

Dairy cows are slowing up on production, the cream checks show. Here is the dairy ration that many used last year and recommend very highly: 200 pounds ground corn, 100 pounds bran, 200 pounds ground oats, 150 pounds oil meal. One pound of mixture to 3 1/2 pounds of milk.

Free Fly Date.

Free fly date, in Pickaway county this year begins September 30. Escape damage by encouraging your neighbors to sow wheat after this date. Let out motto be "No early wheat, no fall brood, no fall brood, no spring brood, no spring brood, no summer damage."

And that's all.

Back Fullness Is Decried by Paris

Day and Evening Gowns and Coats Subjected to New Elaboration.

The most significant detail of the new autumn collections is the revival of the princess silhouette which has been sponsored by such eminent couturiers as Lanvin, Patou, Premet, Poiret, Martial et Armand and Lenief. The new outline, says a Paris correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, has been limited so far to formal costumes, principally those designed for occasions du soir, but it is gradually beginning to assert its influence upon the daytime mode. The modern princess version consists of a slightly molded bodice combined with a skirt which flares below the hips and, of course, the princess waist. Premet and Poiret both achieve the required silhouette curve by means of seamed sections and this will undoubtedly be one smart method of arriving at the new outline.

Black Velvet Frock, Back Giving Two-Piece Effect.

The cape, as an integral part of the costume du soir, and to a lesser degree for daytime wear, has been generously exploited by Patou, Drecoll, Bechoff, Lelong and Doucet at the autumn openings and it has been accorded a splendid early reception by the Continental haute monde. The typical cape silhouette flares moderately or widely, more often the latter, and the Spanish effect is the apotheosis of chic in this romantic member of the feminine wardrobe. Velvet and fur are far and away the outstanding materials.

Back fullness, predicted many months ago, has taken its place as one of the principal variants of the full silhouette. Molyneux, Madeleine et Madeleine-Anna, Patou, Worth, Premet, Martial et Armand, Bechoff, Talbot and Redfern are among the ardent adherents of this silhouette, and the means of expressing it are many. Daytime and evening frocks and coats have all been subjected to the now modish back elaboration. Molyneux arrives at the effect by narrow plaits placed low and at the back, Talbot by means of loose side panels, while other designers employ such devices as apron treatments, huge puff bows and the numerous degrees of the flare.

An interesting black velvet frock is made in straight unbelted fashion with a row of silver buttons down the front, while the back gives a two-piece effect with a belt and slight flare.

Colored Goloshes New Fad in Paris Footwear

An English fashion for colored and color-trimmed footwear has introduced a novelty in the form of bright-hued goloshes for wet weather wear.

Unlike the old variety, these are very dainty affairs. They are beautifully made with finely pointed toes and a single strap behind, that forms a decorative band to the top of the back of the shoe. Made in bright chestnut-brown rubber, in navy blue, various shades of gray, and a clever imitation of crocodile or alligator or lizard skins, they are the latest novelty in Paris, and look extremely smart.

Some bootmakers go so far as to now make special goloshes to match each pair of walking shoes.

Hand-Made Frock

An imported white dress of much charm is of white crepe de chine on the familiar tunic lines. The blouse has much exquisite handwork in the way of double hemstitching and the skirt is plaited into the smallest of box plaits.

All-White Ensemble

The all-white ensemble is always attractive, perhaps even more so this year when the whites are so soft and becoming. A jumper dress of balbrigan is particularly good when worn with a white felt hat and serge coat.

AMUSEMENTS

It seems to this reviewer that those who go to the theater seldom, as well as those who go more or less regularly, cannot afford to miss the Hobart Henley production, "So This Is Marriage," which came to the Metropolitan theater today for two days.

This is one of those rare pictures which possess not only unusual excellencies in the matter of direction, acting, suspense and plot, but also includes a feature—an insert in natural colors of the Biblical story of David and Bath-Sheba—that is extraordinarily beautiful and out of the ordinary in every way.

This sequence, which includes five hundred players clad in the vivid colors of King David's day, which are translated to the screen by the Technicolor process, is an insert in an otherwise ultra-modern story, of the gay and extravagant wife (Eleanor Boardman), the (to her) humdrum husband (Conrad Nagel), and the sympathetic bachelor friend (Law Cody). The remark of the wife to the husband, "Why don't you earn more money; other men do?" is significant of the situation that develops between them.

The insert in colors was directed by Mr. Henley from the eleventh and twelfth chapters of the second book of Samuel. It tells of the stealing of Uriah's wife, Bath-Sheba, by King David, their marriage after Uriah had been sent to his death by David, and later the death of their child. These scenes take place during a great feast and a vivid pageant and long will linger in the memory.

This is a Louis B. Mayer presentation, thru Metro-Goldwyn. Carey Wilson wrote the story; the scenario is by John Lynch and Alice D. G. Miller.

Arctic Veterans

The arctic is simultaneously releasing its hold upon two gallant veterans of many battles with foe and berg. The revenue cutter Bear, so long the warder of the sealing fleet, is not to find an icy grave in the Bering sea, and Roald Amundsen's Maud, committed to the drift ice in 1922, instead of following Stefansson's Karluk to the bottom, has been released from the clutch of the ocean north of Siberia and is now on her way to Nome. Amundsen will deem it a piece of good fortune second only to the salvation of the bold mariners of the air who shared his recent flight from Spitzbergen. No ordinary ship of steel can endure unscathed what these hardy boats of sheathed oak have encountered and survived.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Textiles of practically all kinds can be waterproofed by a new process without interfering with their colors and which permits them to be washed and ironed at ordinary temperatures.

Tunic-and-Skirt Suits Popular for Fall Wear

The trim little tunic-and-skirt suits,
or jumpers, are favorite outfits for autumn wear. Although they were originally intended for sports wear,
they are to be seen everywhere. The model pictured here indicates that the scarf collar of velvet is the last touch
of smartness for the jumper suit.

Thread Work Is Used as Trimming for Underwear

Drawn-in thread work provides a simple
and delightful way of trimming
underwear of lawn, crepe de chine or china silk, anything that is dainty and soft. It is good on children's dresses.

The work is done in the following way: First draw out one thread—as for hemstitching—then take a length of button-hole silk in the color which you wish to introduce; knot this to the next thread in the material, and when drawing this thread out the buttonhole silk is drawn in. The reason for drawing out the first thread is to make room for the thicker thread to be drawn in. Use another color for the next line, and a third shade for the line below it. You will be delighted with the result.

A heavier line may be introduced by using a double length of the buttonhole silk. Before drawing this in pull out two threads from the material,
one each side of the thread which is to be used for knotting to the contrasting color. Measure the length of button-hole silk required, double it on itself and then fasten the loop to the thread in the material which you are going to pull. Care must be taken not to make a clumsy knot, so that the thread will go through quite easily.

Buckles and Buttons Much Used Ornaments

Buckles of many kinds are among the latest slipper ornaments. Good-looking buckles for daytime are made to match or to harmonize with the shoe. Some of these are original and charming, in bronze, jet, steel and leather. All of the French buckles appear to be smaller, daintier than the styles in last season's footwear. For evening there is apparently but one
buckle, and that is set with brilliants,
with genuine diamonds, with old paste,
white sapphires, or white topaz, or just with rhinestones. Some unusually attractive designs are to be had: flower
sprays, set in semi-circles, mercury
wings, butterflies and other pretty things.

Alongside the jeweled buckles one finds buttons for frocks and coats. Like those worn by the dandies of the French court. They are used a lot by fashionable couturiers who are trimming many models with buttons of one sort and another. They add a bright touch and are especially effective on black velvet. Other than the buttons set with stones are many artistic designs most decorative on a dress that is otherwise without trimming.

Hosiery Glove Promises to Be Paris Winter Fad

Short gloves with flaring cuffs of a different colored kid will be the smart
thing this winter, judging by early showings.

Together with long hair and high boots the long, elbow-length glove has apparently lived its day. This year's gloves will barely cover the wrists.
Some will be made of silk, of the same color and texture as the stockings to be worn. Such gloves may be changed each time they are worn and although they are the most expensive they last
the shortest time.

Afternoon and morning frocks will have sleeves—long, tight, closely furled sleeves descending into the gloves. From the elbow to the shoulder some of these sleeves are mere strips of ribbons, but from the elbow
to the wrist the flesh must be covered. So dictate the stylists.

Novel Handkerchiefs

Fascinating little handkerchiefs
have tiny figures handblocked in one corner. These have little skirts made of tiny frills of ribbon which conceal
a minute powder puff.

Unlike ladies of that age, the Cincinnati Zoo is not ashamed of its fifty years.

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity

Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milch cows to provide

- (1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
- (2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
- (3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.

This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.

Such a plan pays best with a De Laval
Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—
and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier
to operate and clean than any other.

Great Damage Done to Farm Machinery

Metal Will Wear Much Longer if Painted.

Few people realize the real damage done to farm machines by allowing them to rust.

Even though a machine is nearly all iron or steel it will wear much longer if kept painted and thus protected from rust, observes E. R. Gross, rural engineer at the New Jersey State College of Agriculture, New Brunswick.

Some think that rust does all its work in the places where it can be seen but this is far from the truth. Rust results from moisture and air. Where there is plenty of air the moisture dries and only a little rust results. Hence it is in the crevices that rust works overtime. The large parts such as the levers and frame of a machine are not damaged much by rust but the small parts, such as catches, springs, nuts and bolts do suffer.

Paint is the best means of checking rust action. A painted bolt will hold longer and can be removed more easily than one allowed to rust. The machine should be cleaned of all dirt and rust before applying the paint. Any kind of paint will do, but it is much better to use an automobile paint or one adapted to iron work. Paint all except scouring parts and apply plenty of paint at joints, corners, crevices between parts, around bolt heads and nuts. Paint as you repair. This is the best time. It can then be done during the season when the machinery is not in use. Some machines may be painted every year, some need painting only once in five or six years.

Protein Supplement Is of Much Importance to Pigs

A protein supplement means a feed which carries a high percentage of protein. Tankage and fish meal are the two feeds which are most commonly used as supplements to corn. The following recommendations, made by Prof. V. Starkey, chief of the animal husbandry division at Clemson college, may be helpful in determining the amount of the above supplements to use.

1. Pigs weighing less than 100 pounds when fed a full grain ration of corn on rape or rye pastures should receive either tankage or fish meal amounting to from 5 to 10 per cent of the concentrates which they are fed.
2. Pigs weighing less than 100 pounds and receiving a limited grain ration of corn (one-half full feed, or about 2 per cent of their body weight) on rape or rye pasture should receive a maximum of 5 per cent tankage or fish meal.
3. Pigs weighing over 100 pounds receiving a full grain ration of corn while on rape pasture should receive a maximum of 5 per cent of tankage or fish meal.

Pocket Gopher Thrives in the Alfalfa Fields

The pocket gopher thrives in alfalfa fields because conditions for continued burrowing are favorable, and alfalfa roots make a most acceptable food for it. Gophers kill many alfalfa plants by cutting the top roots.

The pocket gopher tunnels to find food. In spring and fall, the seasons of greatest activity, a single gopher frequently throws up several mounds in a day. Sometimes one gopher throws up two to three hundred mounds between the time of last cutting of alfalfa and the freeze-up in December. Ten or more gophers can produce 2,000 mounds per acre.

Damage by smothering can largely be avoided if the mounds are dragged down before spring growth begins. This should be one of the earliest field operations next spring, followed with poisoning or trapping, to kill the animals as they show new activity. Treat, and treat again if necessary, in order to cause complete eradication.

If you are not familiar with the poison method, inquire of the nearest county agent or write to A. E. Oman, Kansas State Agricultural college, Manhattan, Kan.

Farm Hints

Breeding and feeding spell success with poultry; but to keep up the breed be sure of pedigrees.

Onions should be harvested when the tops have died down. Dry out the bulbs thoroughly before storing.

The number of cuttings which alfalfa will stand depends partially upon the kind of alfalfa seed used.

Since the old gray mare "ain't what she used to be" there should be a likely colt coming along to take her place.

The tractor has come to stay, but the draft horse will be here for a long time, because tractors cannot wholly replace him.

Next winter's fuel should come from dead and down trees, and from crooked trees and weed trees. Thus will the woodlot be improved.

New standing of alfalfa should be cut along toward the full-bloom stage and old alfalfa about the same stage except for the first cutting, which should be about tenth-bloom stage for good average results.

SEARCHING FOR BODIES IN SUBMARINE

FORMER PICKAWAY MAN IS IN COMMAND OF THE WORK

Rear Admiral Christy Has Been Assigned the Task of Raising Vessel and Recovering Bodies—Some Have Been Found, But There Is Little Hope That Any of the 33 of the Crew Are Alive.

Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, a former resident of this county, is in charge of the efforts to find the bodies and raise the undersea boat, S-51 which went down last Friday night when she was rammed by the Savannah line steamer City of Rome, 14 miles off Block Island. The first body recovered was that of John L. Gibson, of Amity, Oregon, engineer second class, and was found in the battery room by deep sea divers.

The body of William T. Teschemacher, seaman, first class, of Bangor, Pennsylvania, was the second to be found on the S-51 by divers.

Teschemacher's twin brother, Frederick, also was aboard and believed to have been lost. Frederick was thought to have been at the helm when the submarine was struck and one of those washed overboard. The boys were 19.

William's body was taken on the Camden and it was stated in the message from Rear Admiral Christy that all bodies would be taken to the naval hospital at Newport.

The message did not state in what compartment the youth's body was found, but indicated that the diver who entered the submarine may have gone in thru the conning tower hatch instead of the battery room hatch, as first reported. The latter message said he was working toward the battery room hatch from the torpedo room.

A bugler called attention and blew taps as the blanket wrapped bodies of two victims of the S-51, which went down last were lifted tenderly over the sides of the U. S. S. Camden, flight ship of rescue fleet, which is working to recover the 33 men who sank with their ship. Both the bodies were in good condition.

While men prowled thru the submarine the hum of seaplane motors could be heard overhead as naval aviators flew low over the surrounding waters in an effort to find the bodies of three men believed to have been washed overboard with the three survivors who were picked up by a City of Rome lifeboat.

Tuesday it was search for bodies. Monday night it was a search for men. Little hope that any of the 33 in the crew could be alive was held out by officers at the naval station, although none would publicly admit that they believed all their shipmates were dead. Even when word was received that twenty coffins had been ordered from the Chelsea naval hospital to the Newport station, Lieutenant Commander H. A. Flanagan, executive officer of the base, stressed the point that a part of the work of the divers was to make sure that all possible air was being pumped into any compartments that might hold survivors.

The divers, said a message received at the base, were working separately. One of them was inside the S-51 working forward. The other was on the outside of the same part of the ship.

The message also said that airplanes had arrived to assist the two destroyers that Monday night used their searchlights to pierce the darkness of the waters around Block Island as they searched for the bodies that eventually would come to the surface.

Lieutenant Commander Flanagan said the divers evidently would be working either forward or aft from the battery room where Gibson's body was found and taking out the bodies of others that they might come across.

in their gruesome search thru the undersea prison.

Lieutenant Commander F. W. Scanlan, in charge of the submarine training school, with Mrs. Scanlan and Dr. Jones, of New London, bore the sad tidings of her husband's fate to Mrs. Gibson in Groton. Lieutenant Commander Scanlan and his wife have made the rounds every afternoon and evening to visit the wives and relatives of the men who went down on the S-51 and who came from many points so that they could get first word of the fate of their dead ones.

MONDAY CLUB IS LIMITING MEMBERSHIP

Interesting Program Rendered on the Study of the Dark Continent.

The regular meeting of the Monday club, on the evening of September 28, was almost unprecedented as to the number of members present.

After preliminary exercises and reading of minutes of the previous meeting, the president turned the session over to Mrs. Howard Jones, chairman of the history division, the evening's study being the history of Africa, under various topics. Mrs. Jones introduced the subject, giving, in a combined form of reading and conversation, a resume of the chief historical data relating to the "dark continent," together with its topography, its geological aspects, geography, flora and fauna. In all, it was a most satisfactory introduction to the study of Africa, which country will be taken up, also in subsequent lessons.

Under the general title, "Exploitation of Africa by Modern Nations," Miss Reichelderfer read a paper on English explorations in African territory. The writer had not skimmed the surface for bare facts relating to her subject, but had delved deeply, in the end combining thought with a wealth of material gathered in research, the result being a well written and forceful article.

The next topic was a sketch of the African explorer, Henry M. Stanley, given in a most interesting paper prepared and read by Miss Weldon. Many instructive events in the life of Stanley as well as a number of curious and extraordinary incidents which showed him to be one of the most remarkable men of his age were woven together into an entertaining story to which Miss Weldon's hearers listened with pleased attention.

This paper ended the study hour, after which a business session was held, in which Mrs. James Moffitt and Mrs. Evan Reichelderfer were voted in as members.

A matter taken up that may be of general interest related to the limitation of club membership, which in the form of a motion was brought before the club and carried. This action was deemed necessary in view of the restricted quarters being occupied as a club room. From the splendid attendance of members at this meeting, it was evident that a very few more members would leave not even standing room, and it was decided as advisable to take care of this contingency at once.

FALL FESTIVAL TO
BE SEPT. 30-OCT. 3

Arch Post 477, American Legion, Has Announced the Dates for the Fifth Annual New Holland Fall Festival, To Be Held on the Streets, on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 30 to Oct. 3, Inclusive.

Committees in charge of the various phases and departments of the annual celebration have been at work for some time and all preparations are rounding into what now appears to be the biggest and best Fall Festival ever held in this section of the state.

Feeling along the lines of entertainment have been running at a high pitch and those who make this show their annual outing and vacation time are showing much enthusiasm in the coming event. From records received from other towns where similar celebrations have been held this summer, the forecast of attendance will surpass any crowd that has ever visited the Festival.

Attractions will be numerous. Something entertaining for all ages is the aim of those in charge of the contracts and the program will consist of a wide variety of amusement. Attempts have been made to hold all attractions within view of cleanliness and the cheap and immoral shows will not be tolerated. The midway will contain such things as will give profit to the American Legion, in its charitable cause.

The proceeds of the Festival will go into the Memorial Fund of the local veterans' organization. Some profit has been realized from the affair each year and it has been saved and placed into a fund which the ex-soldiers and their sister organization, the American Legion Auxiliary, expect to invest in some fitting Community Memorial—either a permanent home for Arch Post or some other monument. Several hundred dollars are now in the fund and, when a suitable amount is totaled, the work of selecting the Memorial will take place. The Legion asks the support of the community in swelling the Memorial Fund.

MEETING OF
AUXILIARY

Of Howard Hall Post, American Legion.

Mrs. Charles Smith was hostess last evening, to the members of Howard Hall Post, No. 134, American Legion Auxiliary, at her home in East Mound street.

These meetings are being held at the homes of the various members while the improvements to the Post Room in Memorial Hall are in progress, and are being made as attractive as possible in the hopes that more members will arrange to attend the meetings.

After the regular business session, last evening, which was presided over by the president, Mrs. A. A. Parrett, the comfort bags, to be given to the soldiers in the Government hospitals in this district, at Christmas, and which were made at the last meeting, were filled and wrapped in preparation for turning over to the Red Cross committee.

The next regular meeting will be held on Monday evening, October 12th, at the home of Mrs. B. T. Hedges, and it is hoped that as many as possible of the members will be present, as some very important plans are to be discussed.

Good Health Is Essential To Success For Business Women. Says Busy Woman Executive

Counteract the effect of your daily work, whatever it may be, if you would grow old but not stale on your job. That is the theory and has been the practice of a woman who on her forty-first anniversary with the same company received promotion and a title never before accorded one of her sex by the Prudential Insurance Company.

"To increase your value as the years roll on, instead of lagging behind and letting the younger ones set the pace, a man has to keep abreast of the times. A woman has to do likewise if she is going to remain in a responsible post."

So spoke Miss Estelle MacMillan when asked how she had through all the years continued to advance in the company's work, finally winning the title of assistant supervisor, in company with Mrs. Annie M. Power, an expert in industrial procedure who has been with the Prudential thirty-five years.

"Good health, in my opinion, is virtually an essential in a woman's success," said Miss MacMillan. "The harrowing, petty ills—headaches, indigestion, attacks of neuritis or neuralgia—shatter a woman's poise, undermine her powers of concentration and sap her energy. She must avoid them by proper care of her health and suitable diversion after business hours. I am not recommending any one form of exercise or amusement. Every woman has her own needs. She must find them out and supply them."

"There is just one general rule—perhaps I should say two in order to emphasize their importance. Fresh air—all one can get of it day and night—is the first, and the second is sufficient rest. Closely related to rest is the subject of relaxation."

"If a woman is on her feet all day naturally long walks will not appeal to her in the evening. When a woman spends seven hours a day over ledgers she should not sit home and do cross word puzzles. The long walk is for her."

UNIFORM CODES AND SAFETY LAWS

Cleveland, Sept. 29.—(UP.)—A movement has been started for the adoption of uniform codes and laws applying to safety which will insure greater protection against accidents, Carl B. Auel, retiring president of the National Safety Council, declared in an address before the Fourteenth Annual Congress here.

He told how the safety movement had spread into every community, and how it has won the support of the public, insurance companies and even the federal government.

"Safety promotion involves education," Auel said. "If ever a complete solution of the present problem of preventing accidents is found, it must commence with the children in the home."

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

Childhood

Adults, whether parents or governesses or teachers, are phenomena of nature which children unquestionably accept. Unworried by philosophies which rend the souls of adults, to them today is today and yesterday was not, and tomorrow shall not be. Living in the moment, with the moment thus becoming eternity, to them we adults are as the rocks, the trees, the sky, the sun. We are neither to be liked nor disliked, loved nor hated. We just are. We have reality, but it is a sketchy sort of reality, bearing slight relation to important things.

For we adults forget: food and drink and sleep are the realities to us, but not to children. Play, the words or deeds of their coevals—these are the true realities. And how can we, benevolent autocrats seated upon the throne of middle life, understand the vital things?—Arthur Somers Roche, in Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

Cowboy Killed in Rodeo
at Spot He Shot Enemy

Salt Lake City, Utah.—Roy Kivet, twenty-four, cowboy and adopted son of Charles B. Irwin, rancher of Cheyenne, Wyo., was killed when a horse he was riding in a steer-roping contest in a rodeo here fell with him. The rider sustained a broken neck and fractured skull when crushed beneath his mount.

The accident occurred on almost the exact spot and almost a year to the day that Kivet shot and killed Harry Bowles in a rodeo meet here last year. Kivet was acquitted for murder on a plea of self-defense. He also was the second son of Mr. Irwin to die while roping a steer.

Slants on Life

By J. A. WALDRON

The Lesser of Two Evils

"I SAY, Margery! Do you know what I've hawf a mind to do this evening?"

Harold Clarence Bilberry was at table with Mrs. Bilberry. They had passed the first anniversary of married life. Mrs. Bilberry was formerly Margery Golightly, comedienne. Nobody had ever charged her with committing matrimony with any other aim than elegant leisure—at least nobody who had ever seen Harold Clarence. This evening she had noted with apprehension that her husband had not dressed for dinner. This surprise had kept her, throughout the function, from indulging her accustomed and acute desire to yawn in his company. Apparently he embodied the intellectual dernier resort.

"Why, no, dear. Of course I don't. I suppose you'll go to a club, as usual, and enjoy yourself."

"Haw-haw! I thought I should puzzle you! Really, I've hawf a mind to spend the evening with you!"

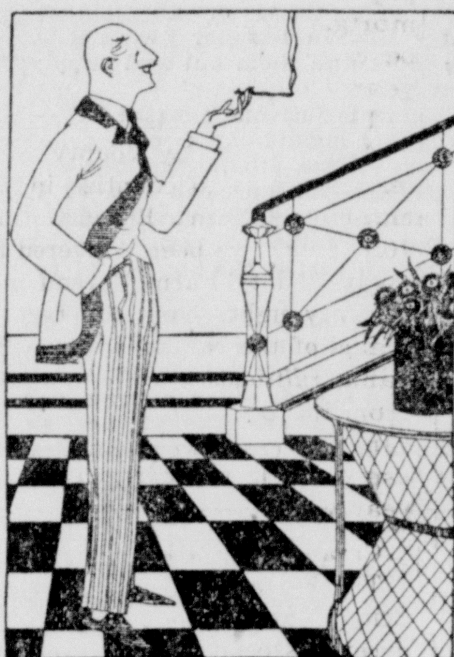

"Oh!"

This exclamation has more than one possibility. It may express surprise, pain, sorrow, anxiety or a wish. It all depends upon the tone and manner. A thoughtful third person, had one been present, might have drawn an interesting conclusion from Mrs. Bilberry's interjection. As it was, there were but two or three servants about. They were busy clearing away.

"Yaas. You see, it's—really, how long is it? I mean, you know, since I've spent an evening with you—in the bosom of my family! Haw-haw! That's clevah, isn't it? I mean the bosom of my family."

Mrs. Bilberry looked at Harold Clarence uneasily and censored another yawn. "Why, I don't remember. How long is it?"

"That's just what I was awksing James before dinner. I told him he needn't wait about to dress me to-

"Haw-haw! I Thought I Should Puzzle You!"

night. And I fawney he has taken an evening out. Haw-haw! When the rat's away, the cat's'll play—Isn't that it? I mean when the master's in, the man may go out. Haw-haw!"

"But what did James say?"

"Oh! Aw! Yaas. James said I hadn't spent an evening at home—in the bosom of my family—since he didn't remembah when! And that's surely a long time, eh, Margery?"

Mrs. Bilberry rose and walked slowly to the elevator. Harold Clarence following. On the first landing, in a hall snugery, she settled on a couch and looked longingly at an open book and a solitary deck, while Harold Clarence lighted a cigarette and stood joyously regarding her. In all his quite uneventful career he had but once before felt more self-satisfied. That was the day he married Margery Golightly.

"Don't you enjoy yourself at one of your clubs—at all of your clubs?"

"I should say I did! Only lawst evening, at the Trallars', I heard a conundrum that amused me fiercely. 'What is the difference,' it went, 'between wuh and the flood?'"

"And what is the difference?"

"Why—aw—let me see. The difference? Aw—yes. It was something, you know, about the kaiser and Noah. And it was amusing. Devilishly so, I assure you, my dear."

"It must have been." Mrs. Bilberry could not censor a yawn this time. But she lost her languor in a moment. The bell rang. A servant appeared with a card. Harold Clarence took it. "Junius Brutus Bunk? Who's he?" That sounds like a—aw—aw—a theater person." Harold Clarence turned to the servant. "Aw—what does he want?"

The servant seemed embarrassed. "I've an appointment with him," said Mrs. Bilberry. "He is a theater manager."

"Aw—aw—an appointment? What about, my dear?"

"I'm going back on the stage."

Curbing Blood Pressure

A new treatment for curbing high blood pressure has been discovered. It consists of hypodermic injections of extracts of the liver. According to Dr. W. J. MacDonald of St. Catherine's Canada, in 33 clinical cases already treated the pressure has been reduced. On the average, he says, the patients treated have been known to be subject to high blood pressure for six years before treatment. Patients whose pressures have been running over 200 for years require one dose a week to keep their pressures under 150.

REAR ADMIRAL
H. H. CHRISTY
OF THE NAVYFormer Pickaway County
Boy Was Born in Walnut Township.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Christy, of 1756 Oak street, Columbus, watch with interest any news that comes from the scene of the sunken submarine S-51. Their son, Rear Admiral H. H. Christy is in charge of the desperate efforts being made to raise the undersea boat that went down to the bottom last Friday, following a collision with a ship. Admiral Christy is commander of the submarine control force at the New London, Connecticut, base. He entered the naval academy at Annapolis in 1887, and after completing the four-year course there, and three years of sea training, he was made an ensign. He was commissioned an admiral last December. Admiral Christy was in command of the cruiser San Diego when it sunk off New York in 1918. He visited ten days with his aged parents here last July. He is 55 years old and has three daughters, all of whom are married.—Columbus Dispatch.

Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, is a Pickaway county product. He was born in Walnut township and is the son of John W. and Bertha Bowman Christy, now residents of Columbus.

As a lad, he attended school in Walnut township. His parents later moving to Ashville and then to Columbus. He was in this city last July and was the guest of his cousin, Mrs. Jay Wall, of Watt street.

ANNUAL SESSION

Cleveland, Sept. 28.—(U.P.)—The fourteenth annual congress of the National Safety Council opened here today.

The convention continues until Oct. 2. More than 5,000 delegates, representing nearly every nation of the world are attending.

Principal speakers were John Barton Payne, chairman of the Central Committee of the American Red Cross and Rear Admiral William S. Sims.

Four hundred speakers were scheduled to address the assembly.

ENTERTAINED AT TARLTON.

The members of the chamber of commerce, their ladies and also the members of the Business and Professional Women's club broke bread at Tarlton Tuesday evening. The women of St. Jacob's Lutheran church served a dinner in the social parlors of the church.

Seventy visitors were present. They were greeted and welcomed by the leading citizens of the village. A most elegant repast was served and everyone enjoyed the spread very much.

Rev. J. M. Wenrich, pastor of the congregation, made the welcome address. He was followed by Rev. G. J. Troutman, who used as his theme; "What Are You Worth?" The address was very interesting. He made some home thrusts worth while listening to and deplored the lack of confidence in our local business men when it came to a matter of making investments we would be better off financially, said the speaker. If we made more investments at home instead of sending our money abroad; it's time to take stock of yourself and see how much you are worth to your family, your town and vicinity.

The next meeting which will be the last out of town, will be held at Kingston next Tuesday evening.

His Business Size

Two of his friends were discussing Dick, as friends will. "I hear," remarked one, "that Dick is doing a big business." There was a silence, as there often is under such circumstances. "Well, isn't he?" persisted the first friend. There was another silence and then the second friend replied: "A big business? I'd hardly say that, but he's doing a near-mahogany desk size business."

Why Can't We?

Roscoe Pound, the brilliant head of the Harvard Law school, talked at a dinner in Boston about the millions that the American people, with unflagging zeal, lose every year in bogus stocks.

"The people learn by doing," said Mr. Pound. "Why can't they learn by being done?"

WE PRINT THE NEWS

Bully Got a Lesson

As a train neared Cleveland, a tall man was aggressively bullying the porter because he had been unable to pick out the passenger's traveling bag by his description of it. Billy Evans, baseball umpire and sports writer, was present and finally expressed a desire that the browbeating cease. But the tall man only talked louder. Evans got up and walked back to be faced aggressively by the talker. "So you've come back to settle this, have you?" he blared at Evans. "Well, now you're here, what are you going to do about it? What are you going to do, eh?" Evans' answer was an instantaneous short-armed cuff with the open hand which jarred the talker's head about three feet. But it settled the argument. Sometimes a fist can settle things more effectively and efficiently than yards of conversation. —Capper's Weekly.

It is estimated that enough wheat will be raised this year to make seventeen new millionaire speculators.

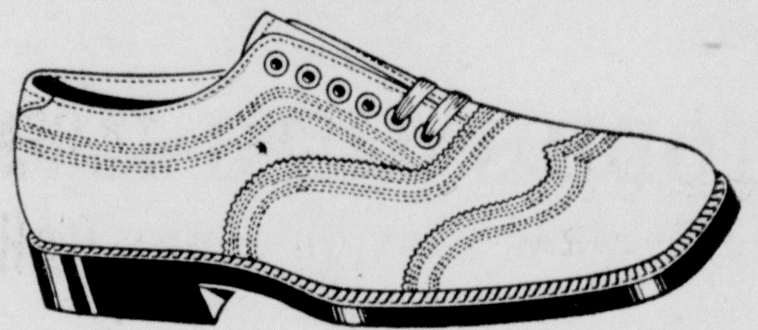

New Continent in Pacific?

Edwin Fairfax Naulty of New York, for many years a student of the earth's movements, says that the Hawaiian islands are gradually rising from the sea and that within a generation the group, now containing 6,454 square miles, will be equal in area to Japan. The fact that Japan's area, including the Japanese portion of the island of Sakhalin, is 173,833 square miles, indicates the importance of Mr. Naulty's prediction.

If this forecast be confirmed, Nature will have restored a lost Atlantis in the mid-Pacific and placed under the domination of the American flag virgin territory more than three times as large as the state of Kentucky. Addition of 166,000 square miles of habitable land to the earth's area would be one of the most remarkable developments in cosmography known since recorded history began.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CROSSES MARK DEATH SPOTS ALONG ROADS

Each Marker Represents a Fatal Motor Accident.

Dotting the sides of Ohio's highways throughout the length of the state at frequent and infrequent intervals stand white crosses. They mark spots where automobilists have been killed.

Automobile drivers, rounding a sharp curve, in many sections come squarely upon a white cross, or possibly two or three, mute reminders that one or more persons have been killed at that spot.

Gov. Vic Donahey was responsible for the placing of the crosses. It was his idea that they would help to cut down automobile fatalities by making drivers more cautious. They have not been installed long enough, however, to draw any conclusions.

Many automobile drivers declare they experience a sinking sensation when they suddenly come upon the white crosses. The governor has been condemned for the move on the ground it gives rise to morbid thoughts; others have praised it as being a good "sedative" for reckless drivers.

SAFETY DEMANDS FOR CAR DRIVER

Persons Driving Autos Soon to Pass Examination as to Qualifications.

The day is coming when the law will require all persons to pass examinations proving that they are physically and mentally fit and have sufficient knowledge to drive an automobile safely. Part of this examination will be on just such subjects as the one presented in these lessons.

Persons who should not be allowed to drive cars include:

- Children below a certain age (usually sixteen).
- Persons whose height does not permit easy reach of the controlling pedals.
- Persons who have not sufficient strength to operate control levers easily and positively.
- Persons under the influence of liquor or drugs.
- Epileptics or others subject to fits or fainting spells.
- Persons who do not know and understand the traffic laws, ordinary rules of the road, and other points concerned with safe and efficient automobile operation.
- Persons with dangerous defective hearing or eyesight.
- Cripples or persons minus arms or legs whose defects interfere with their safe control of an automobile.
- Persons whose nervous structure is not sound or who do not react quickly.
- The mentally incompetent.

Laws Are Needed.

Laws have not yet been passed covering all of these points, but we should bear these things in mind because they are essential for our own safety and the safety of others.

The demands for safety are more stringent than the demands of the law and rightly so. Laws are primarily to insure justice. A full appreciation of safety saves lives and limbs no matter who is to blame.

A man may have a mechanically perfect car, but because of careless driving he may cause an accident that results in serious injury or death to himself or others.

Reckless driving is not a demonstration of skill.

A moment or two saved today by reckless speeding is not efficiency, for speeding tomorrow may result in a smash that will lay up the car for several days and you for several months. Hurrying to get ahead of a train, a street car, or another vehicle saves only a moment or two at the ultimate destination and the gain is not worth the price; there is too much danger of accident.

Best Drivers Are Careful.

The best drivers are especially careful at dusk or twilight. There is then neither enough daylight nor sufficient artificial light to make objects distinguishable at ordinary distances.

Slow up for all turns in the road. Blind corners are dangerous. When it is impossible to see what is coming from around the corner, be prepared to stop. Sound horn a short distance before the corner.

When installing chains on the rear wheels, install them on both wheels or none at all. Only one chain may result in a serious accident. Chains on all four wheels help the steering of the car.

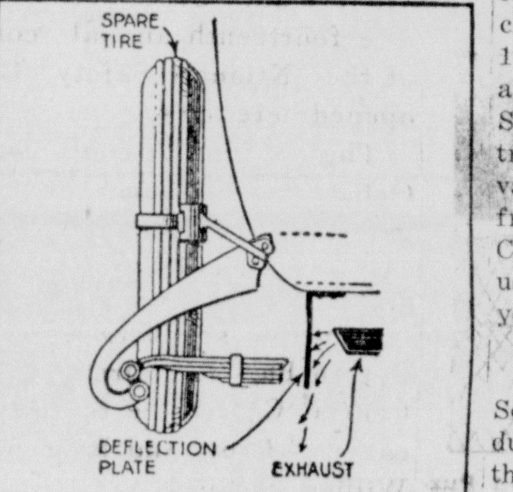

There are ruts at the bottom of almost every hill. Hitting these ruts at too high a speed may cause the driver to lose control of his car.

Drive slowly at bridges and at culverts. A bad rut or a stone in the road may throw your car against the structure.

Protecting the Spare Tire From Exhaust Gas

The poisonous gases that issue from the exhaust of an automobile very often cause the rapid deterioration of the spare tire. These fumes curl about the tire, eat away the live ingredients of the carcass, and when the tire is placed upon the wheel the rotten fabric explodes with a loud "plop."

A piece of sheet iron bent and attached to the rear of the car, as illustrated, will deflect the exhaust and thus prevent the gases from injuring the tire. Just for curiosity's sake

watch the cars as they go by and note how many of them throw the exhaust fumes into the spare tire. You will be surprised.—Paul Peterston in Popular Science Monthly.

Many Autoists Neglect Oiling of Vital Parts

The modern motorist by this time has become, as a rule, well educated in the care of his car, save in the single respect of attending to the lubrication of the chassis. The average motorist has learned, perhaps, by the experience of paying $40 or $50 for a new battery, that it pays to attend regularly to its filling and testing.

He has learned, perhaps, through paying for new bearings for his motor that it pays to keep plenty of oil in his crank case.

But it is the average motorist who does not realize the importance of chassis lubrication, because he never has realized sharply just what his neglect in this respect costs him.

He is more apt, very humanly, to blame it upon the maker of the car, and tells his friends that his car has not "stood up" the way it should. If there were some way of making the motorist realize that it is nothing more or less than his own neglect of chassis lubrication that has been the cause of most of his troubles it would go a long way toward prolonging the life and the satisfactory service of most motor cars.

Too Rich Mixture Will Often Cause Motor Heat

Improper carburetor adjustment is often the cause of overheated engines. Too rich mixture results in a prolonged, sluggish ignition causing the intense heat to be maintained over a longer period of time. This causes the water to heat up too quickly and in its comparatively short cycle of circulation, it cannot become properly cooled, so that an overheated engine results.

The increased heat, due to the prolonged, sluggish ignition caused by a rich carburetor mixture, is transmitted to the circulating water through the medium of the cylinder walls. The rise in the water temperature is instantly recorded by the heat indicator on the radiator cap through the medium of the vapor temperature over the water. The warning of an overheated engine is thus given in ample time before serious damage results.

FARM BUREAU ACTIVITIES IN TABLOID FORM

Thirty-Four Decks in August.

The Livestock Shipping association shipped 34 decks of livestock during the month of August. Twenty-one of the 34 went direct to the packers—sold on home weights. For the fiscal year September 1, 1924, to September 1, 1925, 354 floors of livestock were shipped with a total weight of 5,383,117 pounds.

Club Boys and Girls Stand High At State Fair.

Thirty-one boys and girls had exhibits at the Ohio State fair. Five girls and two boys gave demonstrations in Food club work, Clothing club work and Pig club work. The Food club stood seventh in a class of 67 and the Clothing club eighth in a class of 70. Eleven ribbons were won on pigs including two firsts, three seconds, two thirds, three fourths and one fifth. The poultry club members won one first, one third and one fourth out of the four Pickaway county exhibits.

Good Weather For Soy Beans.

All of the 200 acres of soy beans planted by Pickaway county farmers for the first time were harvested during the dry weather in August. These beans were put up in fine condition and every farmer reporting says he will sow some more next year. Ask your neighbor how he likes soy beans.

Farmers Borrow Money.

One loan for $7,000 was closed and another application was made for a loan of $5,600 during the month of August. These farmers are getting the loans on 5 per cent interest and 1 per cent on the principal, 6½ per cent payable semiannually will cancel the mortgage in 34½ years. Loans may be cancelled any time before 34½ years.

Two Train Loads of Fertilizer.

Again Pickaway county takes the lead of all Ohio counties in the purchase of Farm Bureau fertilizer; 1650 tons have been delivered to Pickaway County Farm Bureau members. Seventy-eight cars on two special trains of the N. & W. and Pennsylvania railroads carried this tonnage from the Lockland plant just north of Cincinnati. A marked increase in the use of high grade fertilizer over last year was noticed.

Cream Association Leads in Ohio.

The Pickaway County Local of The Scioto Valley Cooperative Milk Producers association took first place in the volume of butterfat handled for the month of August, 30,541 pounds of butter fat and 5,436 dozens of eggs at a combined value of $15,817.28 represents the business for the month.

Keeping Count On The Hens.

Does poultry pay? When we analyze the records kept by women from every township for the year beginning November 1, to November 1, 1926, we shall know more about it. Anyone interested may keep records furnished by the Ohio State university. Call the Farm Bureau office.

The Pumpkin Show Is Coming

Pumpkins, pigs and poultry are coming too. At least 65 Pig club pigs will be exhibited; 175 clothing exhibits 25 food and 20 poultry exhibits will be made by club boys and girls. This promises to be the largest club exhibit ever made at the Pumpkin Show. The Pumpkin Show society is offering very liberal rewards for good work. The ladies' committee will have a booth at the show, showing some few devices for home care of the sick. Stop and ask questions.

Clarage Corn.

Clarage corn is making a good showing in every township. This corn does not have quite as big an ear as Reeds Yellow Dent but the shelling per cent is very good and the cob is small. Ears show extreme quality. Three Clarage fields were inspected and have passed the first inspection. Plenty of good seed will be available next spring.

Time to Feed Dairy Cows.

Dairy cows are slowing up on production, the cream checks show. Here is the dairy ration that many used last year and recommend very highly: 200 pounds ground corn, 100 pounds bran, 200 pounds ground oats, 150 pounds oil meal. One pound of mixture to 3½ pounds of milk.

Free Fly Date.

Free fly date, in Pickaway county this year begins September 30. Escape damage by encouraging your neighbors to sow wheat after this date. Let out motto be "No early wheat, no fall brood, no fall brood, no spring brood, no spring brood, no summer damage."

And that's all.

A liquid fertilizer based on colloidal silicate of aluminum that has been invented in Japan is said to improve the taste, form and color of vegetables.

Back Fullness Is Decried by Paris

Day and Evening Gowns and Coats Subjected to New Elaboration.

The most significant detail of the new autumn collections is the revival of the princess silhouette which has been sponsored by such eminent couturiers as Lanvin, Patou, Premet, Poiret, Martial et Armand and Lenier. The new outline, says a Paris correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, has been limited so far to formal costumes, principally those designed for occasions du soir, but it is gradually beginning to assert its influence upon the daytime mode. The modern princess version consists of a slightly molded bodice combined with a skirt which flares below the hips and, of course, the princess waist. Premet and Poiret both achieve the required silhouette curve by means of seamed sections and this will undoubtedly be one smart method of arriving at the new outline.

Black Velvet Frock, Back Giving Two-Piece Effect.

The cape, as an integral part of the costume du soir, and to a lesser degree for daytime wear, has been generously exploited by Patou, Drecol, Bechoff, Lelong and Doucet at the autumn openings and it has been accorded a splendid early reception by the Continental haute monde. The typical cape silhouette flares moderately or widely, more often the latter, and the Spanish effect is the apotheosis of chic in this romantic member of the feminine wardrobe. Velvet and fur are far and away the outstanding materials.

Back fullness, predicted many months ago, has taken its place as one of the principal variants of the full silhouette. Molyneux, Madeleine et Madeleine, Anna, Patou, Worth, Premet, Martial et Armand, Bechoff, Talbot and Redfern are among the ardent adherents of this silhouette, and the means of expressing it are many. Daytime and evening frocks and coats have all been subjected to the now modish back elaboration. Molyneux arrives at the effect by narrow plaits placed low and at the back, Talbot by means of loose side panels, while other designers employ such devices as apron treatments, huge puff bows and the numerous degrees of the flare.

An interesting black velvet frock is made in straight unbelted fashion with a row of silver buttons down the front, while the back gives a two-piece effect with a belt and slight flare.

Colored Goloshes New Fad in Paris Footwear

An English fashion for colored and color-trimmed footwear has introduced a novelty in the form of bright-hued goloshes for wet weather wear.

Unlike the old variety, these are very dainty affairs. They are beautifully made with finely pointed toes and a single strap behind, that forms a decorative band to the top of the back of the shoe. Made in bright chestnut-brown rubber, in navy blue, various shades of gray, and a clever imitation of crocodile or alligator or lizard skins, they are the latest novelty in Paris, and look extremely smart.

Some bootmakers go so far as to now make special goloshes to match each pair of walking shoes.

Hand-Made Frock

An imported white dress of much charm is of white crepe de chine on the familiar tunic lines. The blouse has much exquisite handwork in the way of double hemstitching and the skirt is plaited into the smallest of box plaits.

All-White Ensemble

The all-white ensemble is always attractive, perhaps even more so this year when the whites are so soft and becoming. A jumper dress of balbriggan is particularly good when worn with a white felt hat and serge coat.

AMUSEMENTS

It seems to this reviewer that those who go to the theater seldom, as well as those who go more or less regularly, cannot afford to miss the Hobart Henley production, "So This Is Marriage," which came to the Metropolitan theater today for two days.

This is one of those rare pictures which possess not only unusual excellencies in the matter of direction, acting, suspense and plot, but also includes a feature—an insert in natural colors of the Biblical story of David and Bath-Sheba—that is extraordinarily beautiful and out of the ordinary in every way.

This sequence, which includes five hundred players clad in the vivid colors of King David's day, which are translated to the screen by the Technicolor process, is an insert in an otherwise ultra-modern story, of the gay and extravagant wife (Eleanor Boardman), the (to her) humdrum husband (Conrad Nagel), and the sympathetic bachelor friend (Law Cody). The remark of the wife to the husband, "Why don't you earn more money; other men do?" is significant of the situation that develops between them.

The insert in colors was directed by Mr. Henley from the eleventh and twelfth chapters of the second book of Samuel. It tells of the stealing of Uriah's wife, Bath-Sheba, by King David, their marriage after Uriah had been sent to his death by David, and later the death of their child. These scenes take place during a great feast and a vivid pageant and long will linger in the memory.

This is a Louis B. Mayer presentation thru Metro-Goldwyn. Carey Wilson wrote the story; the scenario is by John Lynch and Alice D. G. Miller.

Arctic Veterans

The arctic is simultaneously releasing its hold upon two gallant veterans of many battles with foe and berg. The revenue cutter Bear, so long the warder of the sealing fleet, is not to find an icy grave in the Bering sea, and Roald Amundsen's Maud, committed to the drift ice in 1922, instead of following Stefansson's Karuk to the bottom, has been released from the clutch of the ocean north of Siberia and is now on her way to Nome. Amundsen will deem it a piece of good fortune second only to the salvation of the bold mariners of the air who shared his recent flight from Spitzbergen. No ordinary ship of steel can endure unscathed what these hardy boats of shenthed oak have encountered and survived.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Textiles of practically all kinds can be waterproofed by a new process without interfering with their colors and which permits them to be washed and ironed at ordinary temperatures.

Tunic-and-Skirt Suits Popular for Fall Wear

The trim little tunic-and-skirt suits, or jumpers, are favorite outfits for autumn wear. Although they were originally intended for sports wear, they are to be seen everywhere. The model pictured here indicates that the scarf collar of velvet is the last touch of smartness for the jumper suit.

Thread Work Is Used as Trimming for Underwear

Drawn-in thread work provides a simple and delightful way of trimming underwear of lawn, crepe de chine or china silk, anything that is dainty and soft. It is good on children's dresses.

The work is done in the following way: First draw out one thread—as for hemstitching—then take a length of button-hole silk in the color which you wish to introduce; knot this to the next thread in the material, and when drawing this thread out the button-hole silk is drawn in. The reason for drawing out the first thread is to make room for the thicker thread to be drawn in. Use another color for the next line, and a third shade for the line below it. You will be delighted with the result.

A heavier line may be introduced by using a double length of the button-hole silk. Before drawing this in pull out two threads from the material, one each side of the thread which is to be used for knotting to the contrasting color. Measure the length of button-hole silk required, double it on itself and then fasten the loop to the thread in the material which you are going to pull. Care must be taken not to make a clumsy knot, so that the thread will go through quite easily.

Buckles and Buttons Much Used Ornaments

Buckles of many kinds are among the latest slipper ornaments. Good-looking buckles for daytime are made to match or to harmonize with the shoe. Some of these are original and charming, in bronze, jet, steel and leather. All of the French buckles appear to be smaller, daintier than the styles in last season's footwear. For evening there is apparently but one buckle, and that is set with brilliants, with genuine diamonds, with old paste, white sapphires, or white topaz, or just with rhinestones. Some unusually attractive designs are to be had: flower sprays, set in semi-circles, mercury wings, butterflies and other pretty things.

Alongside the jeweled buckles one finds buttons for frocks and coats, like those worn by the dandies of the French court. They are used a lot by fashionable couturiers who are trimming many models with buttons of one sort and another. They add a bright touch and are especially effective on black velvet. Other than the buttons set with stones are many artistic designs most decorative on a dress that is otherwise without trimming.

Hosiery Glove Promises to Be Paris Winter Fad

Short gloves with flaring cuffs of a different colored kid will be the smart thing this winter, judging by early showings.

Together with long hair and high boots the long, elbow-length glove has apparently lived its day. This year's gloves will barely cover the wrists. Some will be made of silk, of the same color and texture as the stockings to be worn. Such gloves may be changed each time they are worn and although they are the most expensive they last the shortest time.

Afternoon and morning frocks will have sleeves—long, tight, closely furled sleeves descending into the gloves. From the elbow to the shoulder some of these sleeves are mere strips of ribbons, but from the elbow to the wrist the flesh must be covered. So dictate the stylists.

Novel Handkerchiefs

Fascinating little handkerchiefs have tiny figures handblocked in one corner. These have little skirts made of tiny frills of ribbon which conceal a minute powder puff.

Unlike ladies of that age, the Cincinnati Zoo is not ashamed of its fifty years.

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity

Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milch cows to provide

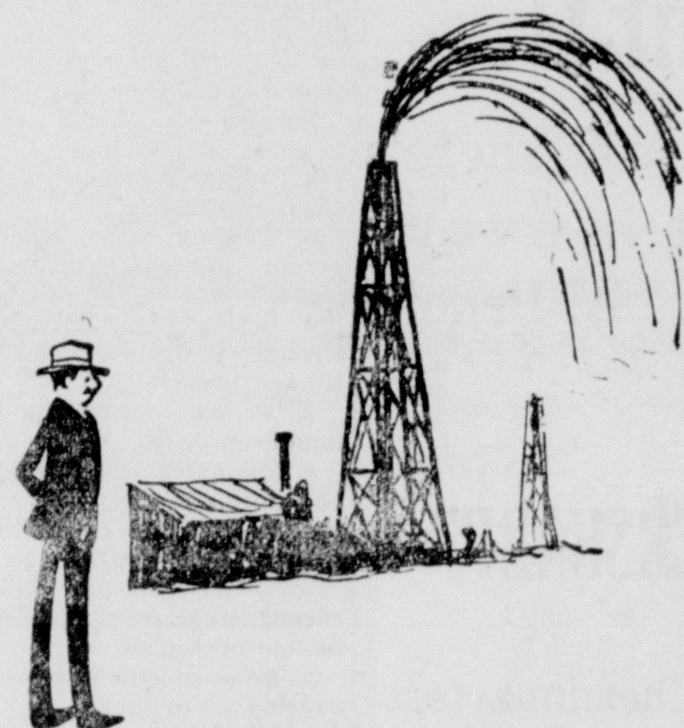

- (1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
- (2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
- (3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.

This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.

Such a plan pays best with a De Laval Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier to operate and clean than any other.

Great Damage Done to Farm Machinery

Metal Will Wear Much Longer if Painted.

Few people realize the real damage done to farm machines by allowing them to rust.

Even though a machine is nearly all iron or steel it will wear much longer if kept painted and thus protected from rust, observes E. R. Gross, rural engineer at the New Jersey State College of Agriculture, New Brunswick.

Some think that rust does all its work in the places where it can be seen but this is far from the truth. Rust results from moisture and air. Where there is plenty of air the moisture dries and only a little rust results. Hence it is in the crevices that rust works overtime. The large parts such as the levers and frame of a machine are not damaged much by rust but the small parts, such as catches, springs, nuts and bolts do suffer.

Paint is the best means of checking rust action. A painted bolt will hold longer and can be removed more easily than one allowed to rust. The machine should be cleaned of all dirt and rust before applying the paint. Any kind of paint will do, but it is much better to use an automobile paint or one adapted to iron work. Paint all except scouring parts and apply plenty of paint at joints, corners, crevices between parts, around bolt heads and nuts. Paint as you repair. This is the best time. It can then be done during the season when the machinery is not in use. Some machines may be painted every year, some need painting only once in five or six years.

Protein Supplement Is of Much Importance to Pigs

A protein supplement means a feed which carries a high percentage of protein. Tankage and fish meal are the two feeds which are most commonly used as supplements to corn. The following recommendations, made by Prof. V. Starkey, chief of the animal husbandry division at Clemson college, may be helpful in determining the amount of the above supplements to use.

1. Pigs weighing less than 100 pounds when fed a full grain ration of corn on rape or rye pastures should receive either tankage or fish meal amounting to from 5 to 10 per cent of the concentrates which they are fed.

2. Pigs weighing less than 100 pounds and receiving a limited grain ration of corn (one-half full feed, or about 2 per cent of their body weight) on rape or rye pasture should receive a maximum of 5 per cent tankage or fish meal.

3. Pigs weighing over 100 pounds receiving a full grain ration of corn while on rape pasture should receive a maximum of 5 per cent of tankage or fish meal.

Pocket Gopher Thrives in the Alfalfa Fields

The pocket gopher thrives in alfalfa fields because conditions for continued burrowing are favorable, and alfalfa roots make a most acceptable food for it. Gophers kill many alfalfa plants by cutting the top roots.

The pocket gopher tunnels to find food. In spring and fall, the seasons of greatest activity, a single gopher frequently throws up several mounds in a day. Sometimes one gopher throws up two to three hundred mounds between the time of last cutting of alfalfa and the freeze-up in December. Ten or more gophers can produce 2,000 mounds per acre.

Damage by smothering can largely be avoided if the mounds are dragged down before spring growth begins. This should be one of the earliest field operations next spring, followed with poisoning or trapping, to kill the animals as they show new activity. Treat, and treat again if necessary, in order to cause complete eradication.

If you are not familiar with the poison method, inquire of the nearest county agent or write to A. E. Oman, Kansas State Agricultural college, Manhattan, Kan.

Farm Hint

Breeding and feeding spell success with poultry; but to keep up the breed be sure of pedigrees.

Onions should be harvested when the tops have died down. Dry out the bulbs thoroughly before storing.

The number of cuttings which alfalfa will stand depends partially upon the kind of alfalfa seed used.

Since the old gray mare "ain't what she used to be" there should be a likely colt coming along to take her place.

The tractor has come to stay, but the draft horse will be here for a long time, because tractors cannot wholly replace him.

Next winter's fuel should come from dead and down trees, and from crooked trees and weed trees. Thus will the woodlot be improved.

New standing of alfalfa should be cut along toward the full-bloom stage and old alfalfa about the same stage except for the first cutting, which should be about tenth-bloom stage for good average results.
